Parkhouse Bell sponsors National Employment Services Association National Conference 9th August 2016

Parkhouse Bell was delighted to recently sponsor the National Employment Services Association (NESA), National Conference 2016 in Melbourne Australia.

We have been supporting Australia's Employment Services, Vocational Education and Healthcare sectors since 2008, specialising in the recruitment of executive, supervisory, professional and management roles.

We were delighted to sponsor this year's conference and congratulate NESA on the delivering a Conference that promoted debate, challenged new thinking and delivered a number of thought provoking speeches from industry leaders.

Our CEO, Matt Wells, commented, "I believe that our work across the UK, Middle East and Australia gives us a unique insight into the employment services market. It was really interesting to hear that many of the challenges facing employment services providers are consistent across these international markets."

We were delighted to sponsor a number of speakers at the Conference including Gordon Cairns, the Chairman of Woolworth's and Origin Energy. Gordon, one of the most respected business leaders in Australia, shared his personal insight the challenges that must be faced to continually build a resilient business.

"Woolworths is an iconic business in Australia, it's a very strong business. It's stalled but it can become great again and I love a challenge. All good companies go through a period when they operate at perfection and then they stall – when you hit the stall point you reignite."
